PLAN AND EXECUTE

03 February - 06 March 2021

Plan & Execute is an exhibition by doctoral candidate Libby Eckersley. In it, the artist makes visible how she needs to think to keep making art after a shift in motivation.

The various materials which are displayed in an increasingly organised manner across the gallery space are the result of developing a set of flexible artmaking strategies over the four years in which Libby undertook her practice-led research. These mostly conceptual strategies include the use of a grid of human comprehension, the halving of uncertainty, a contrast between slow and fast, sporadic repetition, excess materials, a process of de-articulation, and the incorporation of irritants.

This focus on developing a new bundle of artmaking processes is intended to create an enriched environment in which further experimental artistic practice is made possible.
